Truth is knocking on your door. Will you open? Or hide from the call of actuality in your little box of desires? If you open, we shall dine together from the buffet of creation as it is. If you evade, you inherit the darkness you design.

We testify to the truth and encounter the voice of what is in the court of Pontius Pilate. We are not kings of Caesar, speak not of the myopic Pharisees. This truth is the uncoated reality of heaven, the sovereign designs of actuality.

When you embrace the truth of what is, you enter the path of pristine becoming. When you walk the path of consummation, you inherit the radiant life of essence. It was always there, right before you. Why do you keep blinding yourself?

The truth is knocking at your door. If you open, it shall set you free.

So here we are at the courtyard of Pontius Pilate. The myopic Pharisees have brought in Jesus with their allegations to be judged. Says Pilate, "This annoying lot, they say you claim to be their king. Is that true?"

Says Jesus, "If I should be a king, then, certainly not a king of theirs, or a king of your world. My sovereignty is of a different order. In fact, I am here simply to testify to the truth. Those who align with the truth, they will hear my voice and they will recognize it."

"And pray, tell, what then is the truth of yours", asks Pilate. He is not concerned with the truth of all things as they are. He is concerned with operational information. This truth has nothing to do with field-specific knowledge or matters of belief. It is truth that you must directly experience and witness for yourself.

A truth, knocking at your door – and if you open, we shall dine together. Dine straight from the buffet of creation itself, released from the captivity of your shackles. This truth, the word, the logos, the vessel for the radiance of Christ itself, is embedded in every fiber of our existence.

This truth, you coat with projection and self-deception, blinding yourself. Open your eye, behold what is. When you resign from the finite world of desires, you will witness the truth as it is. From this truth, you will witness the path, and in this path, you will discover the life. "I am the truth, the way, and the life." This is the meaning.

Your hollow prayers and doctrinal beliefs will not lead you into the embrace of the spirit. The holy spirit descends, uninvoked, when you align yourself with truth in purity. Like on the wings of a pure white dove, this unborn wind of spirit will carry you to the other shore.

The cost of the ticket is the value of your fractured desires, pursued in separation. Then do not pursue the perishable, my friend, embark on a journey with the truth. Next time you hear the knocking at the door of your mind, maybe open and see what comes. Perhaps the whole of the kingdom comes – on earth as it is in heaven, but in measure to how true you are.
