The concrete foundations of your awareness. The blueprints that support and constrain you. Welcome to the inner earth. Are you governed by the unseen hand, pushing and pulling your ways from the shadows of your being? Can you see in the dark?

If you're an earthling caught up in your patterns, stuck in the fabric of your specific identity, you remain a slave to your mental habits, driven by the gravity of your unseen earth. Then witness your conditions and hatch from the prison!

Shall we ponder on the essence of the element of earth for a moment? Not this physical soil and terrain here. The actual essence of earth. The physical realm is but a symbol, a representation, a reminder of your inner earth.

The inner earth, too, is a solid plane of presence. Countless its composite structures, unseen the caverns in its depths. We're not talking about a mythic subterranean plane with an entry passage somewhere in the south pole. We're talking about your inner constricts, your subjective blueprint. The mass of your constructed presence, your anchor to finite reality.

It must be there, your inner earth, for embodied life to function. But when it governs you from the shadows, when it directs your flow with an unseen hand, when it dictates the reactions you should take... When it censors the expanse of relevance and meaning, it's time to get an upper hand – free yourself of its hold.

Introspection, recognition of its presence. Ever vigilant in watching the matrix of your underlying conditions. How many the potentials shut down and sucked under simply because you take the earth for your master? Soften those hard and sharp edges. Break free from your stagnated paradigms.

If you remain an earthling, then yes the earth is your master, you its slave, reaping the suffering from your finite toils. Then be an observer, reflect from the orbit, map your structures, chart your caverns. We collaborate with earth as volunteers – not slaves.

With that we bring reconciliation, fulfillment, harmony to our earth, beyond the constraints conceived of in our prisons. Then be not afraid of the dark, explore the deepest essence of your earth. For only in seeing it, encountering it, witnessing it exactly for what it is, will you ever overcome this stronghold. The essence of earth we ponder – to be free.
