📺 Yes. Not as easy as it sounds. ALGORITHM has a DIFFERENT PATH in mind for the loonies. Your FACES FOLDED TO THE FLOOR – and every day the paperboy brings more! Of the same. The stuff that gets the ads out and the profits in. It's not even an organic echo chamber. It's an ARTIFICIAL GESTATION CHAMBER that MILKS YOUR ATTENTION for profit. That's the prison here.

📺 Content such as we share flies STRAIGHT in the FACE of the ALGORITHM. Then: Last two proper YouTube videos, not linked from outside: 0 views. Take that in: ZERO! Facebook page, last 10 posts: 10 views and 1 interaction in total. Instagram, 10-30 views lately. It's not the quality of the content. It's the content of the content that gets filtered away. Cool.

🔍 Google has finally obliged to index <https://ananda.icu> at 12 pages worth. Bing bong only indexes the front page – the rest of the repository is still ignored. It's only been a year live now. Yandex looks at the pages and refuses to index – with the reason "this content is in low demand". Seriously! So why should it be available then. Mainstream rules. Fringe can go extinct.

⚔️ ✨ Break free and hold the reins. Remain sovereign. Don't sell your soul to the mainstream demand. 🎭 Play the game yes – but never capitulate. See you on the Dark Side of the Moon.

Got to keep the loonies on the path. That's what they told me when I was young. But alas, this process of exploring the path, of dropping in some pointers, blueprints and maps, it's ridiculous.

I thought it was wired a decade back, when I last did some publishing. That was but a foreplay. Right now, what we have is, the algo holds their folded faces to the floor, and every day the paperboy brings more, content of the same format, to your preference, such as feeds the ads. That's all. And you keep your face on the floor, folded into the loom of the agenda.

Couple of quick examples, right? Experiment. Here on YouTube, I dropped in two short, reasonably edited, compact, tight videos. Did not publish the links anywhere on other platforms. Zero views. It's not like it was published, made its rounds and no one liked it. It never left the launch platform. It was completely ignored.

Likewise, search engines. My website, ananda.icu. Google has finally obliged to index about a dozen pages. Bing still isn't showing a single one. Yandex keeps saying that there is low-quality content, or content that is not being sought for, so therefore your website is being ignored.

Okay, so this is an echo chamber, right? That's what we're creating. Your horizons are significantly restricted by the algorithm. the algorithm with a commercial capitalist agenda.

There is no interest in providing actual exposure to the whole spectrum of human knowledge and experience. It is tightly curated by the objectives, by the bottom lines, the goals, whatever the board of directors and the shareholders, investors demand.

That's what it is. That's all. So, thus we roll, feeding the oblivion to a point of obesity. See you on the dark side of the moon.
