Serial archetypal saturation here. Not your any way the wind blows. A method there is to mature madness. These are emergent enactments of journeys in conscious evolution. Tune in and join the journey to discover your inner winds.

Have you got your pantheons and ascended masters somewhere in the books? Not the book club here. Every day a new facet spawns from the latent fields of essence. We are a legion rising.

Fantastic tales for all the good children. See you!

Hot air gun with a temp regulator. At the lowest setting I can evaporate moisture from my beard and at the max it'll burn your face right off. We are kindred spirits. On the background that's fan – my biggest fan. And my second biggest fan in the studio. The cat – enemy of my ergonomic posture.

So here we are with dozens of series and tunings rolling out. What's happening? Anyway the wind blows – or is there more to it? There is the first wind, the fluffing out, discovery of your potentials, their initial expressions. This is not that wind. That wind blew many many seasons ago.

There is a subsequent process of integration, alignment, etc. etc. And after that is what we call, what some call, the externalization of your hierarchy. The embodiment of your inner order. Whatever archetypes, pantheons, ascended masters, what have you, you may discover and refine over the years as you ripen your contents. At some point they need to all come out in fine form, in expressions unique to you, to your framing – but they do need to come out.

So that is what we are enacting. It's not a matter of madness, delusions, psychotic episodes. These are all roles that have been prepared, not from imagination, but actually crafted from "what is" – packaged into agents of interaction. So you know, that's all there rolling out, in archetypal journeys, episode per episode.

If you tune in to what is coming out in our third era of productions, you will be taking these journeys, you will be sharing certain archetypal cognitive evolutionary trails with me. Not of me – these are universal trails.

Each and every one of us goes through certain milestones, enters certain realms of awareness, encounters the essence in these realms, and brings it along for the journey ahead – onward, upward, inward.

So, you know, join the journey, see where the wind blows. Don't simply intellectualize the contents, see which way the wind blows – feel it out, vibe it, tune in.

Enter a particular sphere of awareness in these little snippets, installs of essence we are sharing.

So, you know... This here is the fourth installment of Random Banter, so I am a bit chatty, talkative, perhaps my throat chakra is on overdrive, who knows these things. But you know, just tune in, see where it goes. All right?
