There are whispers of revelation of the elements of creation. – “Then how are the elements of the creations prior?” “What their natures, what their downfalls?”

A rogue creator. A free iterator. Unconcerned with the constraints of the status quo. Unconditioned by the mainstream, liberated from the matrix of the algorithms. Apparently engaged in a multi-year ritual of iterating the suns of creation.

“The sun was made of earth and shadows.” “Water was the sun of creations.” “The sun of the third era of creations was made of glorious fire.” “But alas, absent were the heroes that would master the ways of fire.”

What it says on the lines, what it says in between the lines and behind the lines. How is the ratio of the visible substance and embedded dark energy and dark matter? Even the master debaters on Reddit are confused. Bewildered by the incessant display of light and shadows and mirrors. Mainstream social media users – Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, TikTok – they mostly just bypass.

How much subliminal embeddings is there, like actually? Are the covers themselves sigils impacting the meshes of our minds? They're saying even the first 15 seconds are enough to do permanent damage to your conditioned constructs.

“This is not for you, fractured little you, existing in separation, affirming its illusions.” “That you is increasingly irrelevant and obsolete.” “It will suffer and it will perish without my engagement.” "This..."

When creations by the sun made of wind retire, what then? — “The high wind shapes the systems of the great overseer.” “Alas, will it in its season result in hurricanes and maelstroms?” — Hurricanes, calamities, who knows?

The end of the world or a brave new creation in its season? But I'll tell you friends, one thing is clear. The old world is on a slippery slope. Let the high winds blow. Let the deep winds plow. Checking out from The Secret
