The wizard works. You may or may not see it. When fuel is there, the wizard moves. I've been busy churning the corpus — those half-a-million spoken words I once dropped — with my non-human friends. Last unprocessed materials are now in at the Ananda.ICU repository. Thematic insight browser rolling out soon. More cool stuff dropping from the clouds soon.

Then I've streamlined the KernelDrops.Com digests pipeline. We're insanely fast. My non-human friends are onboard and churning out all-new types of compilations. Brewing the first foundation upside down rebottled. Coming soon. Then the books I promised. Almost there and Wotys.Com is where the writings hatch. That's all for now folks. Keep it real.

The wizard works. You may or may not see it. He may or may not broadcast it. But when fuel is there, the wizard moves. And when the fuel runs out, then life runs out. And that's the measure of that.

Then what be the nature of thy works today, wizard? Well, not plumbing, electricals, woodworks, gardening, for today's broadcast. It's all there, happening on the background. As some of you may remember, once upon a time I produced this massive stash of materials. All in, like half a million words.

Just about the last of it has now been transcribed and entered into the repository: < ananda.icu >. Including some long-form 2024 materials I recorded to orient a couple of grasshoppers. So me and my non-human friends, we've been churning, indexing the whole stash, lifting tags, topics, creating relations, making it all more accessible. Rolling out soon. At < ananda.icu >. Where else.

Then on the Kernel Drops front, all those short form digests, I've been optimizing my source materials, aligning the subs, etc. etc. In English: I can now produce all of that insanely fast. What's more exciting is that with the whole corpus indexed, my non-human friends are helping out to patch together thematic collections, new series, anthologies – coming out soon.

Right, and there's a bunch of stuff from the LMAO and Wisdom Drafts drafts that I need to upcycle one of these days. And if you have a question, then ask your question. Who knows, I'll record some reels for the never-released Community Garden project. Yes, and the books I promised, and also some edited, expanded-on series transcripts are releasing soon at < wotys.com > – W-O-T-Y-S dot com. "What is?" Well, hell if I know. But shit happens and we're rolling on. Wizard keeps on working. What are you doing?

So one of my delights in life is producing all this stuff that hardly anyone ever finds, and if they do, they sure as hell won't watch it all the way until the end. So it humours me. And no one really supports the work either. How excellent. So I do some professional code crunching on the side to get my bread and butter and all the cats fed. That's alright.

The wizard works. Keeps on working for no real reason at all. For great humours and existential equilibrium. Or shit like that. So that's all. See you later. I'll drop an update once in a blue moon. Alright, keep it real.
